

Stuart A. Schweitzer

Global Markets Strategist

Stuart Schweitzer is Managing Director and Global Markets Strategist for JPMorgan Private Bank and JPMorgan Asset Management. He is responsible for analysis of global financial markets and economies with an emphasis on asset allocation and market strategy. He is a member of the Asset Management Global Strategy Team (GST) and the Private Bank Investment Team (PBIT), which guide asset allocation for JPMorgan Institutional and Private Clients, respectively. He is a senior voice of the firm on the economy, investment outlook, and portfolio strategy. He is a frequent speaker at investment conferences, a frequent guest on CNBC, Bloomberg TV, and PBS Nightly Business Report, and is quoted regularly in the Financial Times, Wall Street Journal and other business periodicals.

Mr. Schweitzer joined J.P. Morgan from the Federal Reserve in 1975. He joined the investment management business in 1988, initially as the organization's economist and subsequently as head of quantitative and strategy research in the U.S. equity group. He became global strategist for JPMorgan Asset Management in 1999 and took on the same role for JPMorgan Private Bank in 2003.

Mr. Schweitzer is a graduate of City College of New York and holds a Ph.D. in Economics from the University of Minnesota. A portion of his doctoral studies was conducted as a Research Fellow at the Brookings Institution in Washington, D.C.
